Captain of Berwin, American Ship Under Own Flag, Testifies in Trial of Hamburg-American Men Who Are Charged With Conspiring to Deceive U. S.

SAW CAP TRAFALGAR AND CARMANIA FIGHT

Both War Vessels on Fire Before the Cap Was Sunk—Defense Concedes Ship
Line Paid $1,419,394
Sending Out 12 Vessels.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—How the Hamburg-American line succeeded in reaching German warships in the Atlantic in August and September, 1914, with 2000
tons of coal and large amounts of foodstuffs by means of the steamer Berwin, an American boat under the American flag, was told today on the witness stand by the Berwin's captain, Fritz Edward Falkenberg.

Capt. Falkenberg was a Government witness in the trial of Dr. Karl Buening, managing director, and George Kotter, Adolph Hochmeister and Joseph Poppinghaus, subordinate officials of the Hamburg-American line, on trial on charges of conspiring to deceive and defraud the United States.

Falkenberg's story.
The Berwin sailed from New York at 8:30 a. m. at night, Aug. 5, ostensibly for Buenos Aires with Poppinghaus as supercargo and in charge. Taking up Capt.
Falkenberg's story there, her movements
were as follows:

First, Poppinghaus ordered him to stay within the three mile limit, after leaving Sandy Hook, to avoid British cruisers, but later instructed him to steer for Cape Hatteras. There he was told to steam back and forth, as he might meet German ships. For 36 hours, the Berwin did steam back and forth over a 60-mile course and finally at 6:30 a. m., Aug. 28, sighted a German fleet of five ships.

The ships were the Cap Trafalgar, the Pontas, the Eleanor Woerner, the Santa Lucia and the little German gunboat Eber. The Cap Trafalgar hoisted a signal, "B. M." meaning "come nearer,"
after the Berwin, on Poppinghaus's order, had hoisted the same letters.
Weather was stormy, the wind high and the sea heavy, so the Berwin, unable to discharge her cargo, stayed 15 days with the German fleet.

When the elements permitted, she shifted her provisions, 40 tons of foodstuffs, and much of her coal to the Cap Trafalgar and the Eleanor Woerner.
About Sept. 10 three of the fleet sailed away, leaving only the Pontas and Cap Trafalgar, to which the Berwin was still discharging her cargo. Before leaving, however, the Eber gave up her guns—two 4-inch and six 1-pounders—to the Cap Trafalgar.

Cap Trafalgar Surprised.
On the morning of Sept. 14, 1914, Capt.
Falkenberg testified, the Cap Trafalgar and the Pontas were surprised by the British auxiliary cruiser Carmania and another British boat, which came on fast, intending to give battle. The Germans turned to flee and the Berwin, weighing anchor, trailed slowly behind,
veering out of range.

"The Carmania gained fast," Capt.
Falkenberg said. "The Cap Trafalgar steamed south about a mile, then turned right about and faced the Carmania.
They were about two and a half miles apart.

"The Carmania fired the first shot and then another one before the Cap Trafalgar replied. They both then began firing fast. The Pontas kept on her way, leaving the Cap Trafalgar to fight alone. In half an hour both the Carmania and the Cap Trafalgar were badly afloat and in two hours the Cap Trafalgar sank."

Poppinghaus was aboard the Eleanor Woerner at this time, Capt. Falkenberg testified. The Berwin later rejoined the Eleanor Woerner, went to Rio Janeiro, got a cargo and returned home.
She failed to reach Buenos Aires, the port for which she cleared, Capt. Falkenberg said.

The Government charged that the Ber-win was the only one of the 16 boats chartered by the defendants, at a cost of $2,000,000, to relieve German cruisers which succeeded in her errand. The others, it is believed, were all captured
before they reached the Germans.

Present of $500 to Captain.
Capt. Falkenberg said George Kotter, superintendent of the Hamburg-American line, made him a present of $500 in return for his services, when the Berwin got back to New York.
Frederick F. Hasler, steamship broker, testified that he chartered three Norwegian steamers, the Thor, Som-merstad and the Unita, to John H.
Gans, now dead, for the Hamburg-American line, at or about the beginning of the war. Gans told the witness, it was testified, that the Hamburg-American line wanted the vessels to replace those in its West Indies service.

These three steamers, the Government

GUARD ON PUBLIC BUILDINGS IN WASHINGTON REDOUBLED

Special Precautions Taken at Entrances to State, War and Navy Headquarters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Watchful-ness of guards about the principal Government buildings in the capital has been redoubled on special orders. Today guards stationed at positions commanding all entrances in the building which houses the State, War and Navy Departments, were under orders to question and, if necessary, search any persons of whom they had doubts.

Anyone carrying a package was subject to questioning. Hundreds of tourists passing through the buildings daily.
Since a bomb explosion wrecked a room in the Capitol last summer and bomb plots generally have kept the Government detectives busy, there has been more than usual activity among the guards, but now the watch is even more strictly kept.

Guards employed by railroad companies are constantly on duty in the railroad tunnel leading to the bridge over the Potomac River, which is the principal gateway to the South.

WHITLOCK REACHES NEW YORK MUCH IMPROVED IN HEALTH

Minister to Belgium Met by Toledo Delegation on Landing—Expects to Return on Dec. 28.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Brand Whitlock, American Minister to Belgium, and Mrs. Whitlock were met by a delegation from Toledo, O., headed by Charles M. Milroy, Mayor-elect, when they landed here today from the steamer Ryndam.

Whitlock said although he was ill
when he boarded the ship at Rotterdam and the steamer encountered heavy weather throughout the voyage, he felt much improved.

Whitlock and his wife expect to spend Thanksgiving day here and will then proceed to Washington. From there they will go to Toledo and Cleveland.
He said he would sail from here Dec.
28 to take up his duties in Belgium again. He said he was here chiefly to rest and visit his mother.

FINE ON TRIAL ON A CHARGE OF SOLICITING BRIBE

His Attorney Announces He Will Offer No Defense in Justice Court.

ALLEGES A FRAME UP

Expects to Carry Case of County Excise Commissioner to Higher Court.

Robert J. Fine, a member of the Executive Board of St. Louis County, was placed on trial this morning before Justice of the Peace G. H. Knoche at Creve Coeur, on a charge of soliciting a bribe of $400 from Peter Gounis of Meramec Highlands.

The case will be tried before a jury of six. The selection of the jury was begun over the protest of Arthur V. Lash-by, attorney for Fine, who made a technical objection to the information against Fine, and objected to Prosecuting Attorney Ralph being permitted to amend the information.

The caption of the information charged the offense was committed Oct.
28, 1914, and in the bond the year was given as 1915. The Prosecuting Attorney was permitted to amend the date.

Charges by Saloon Keepers.
The issuance of the information against Fine followed the collection of a number of affidavits from saloon keepers, in regard to Fine's conduct of office.

The information against Fine charges that he agreed to withdraw his opposition to the issuance of a saloon license to Gounis, who is proprietor of a saloon at Park, Meramec Highlands, on condition of the payment of $500.

Fine is a Progressive. The other member of the board is Clarence L.
Shawell, a Democrat.

Twenty affidavits have been subscribed by the State.

After examining the prospective jurors, Lashby told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he would offer no defense for Fine, and would place no witnesses
on the stand.

Charges a Frame-Up.
"This trial is a farce and a frame-up,"
he said, "and I shall offer no defense.
If these managing the prosecution were sincere they would have filed the information in the Circuit Court, where a trial could have been conducted in accordance with the recognized forms of law, instead of filing it in a Justice of the Peace court 30 miles in the country."

"I have not determined whether I shall cross-examine the State's witnesses. We have 28 witnesses who would have been summoned if the trial was in the Circuit Court, but I did not summon one of them to come out here.

Another brother, Dan, played at St.
Louis University.

Paul Dillon got considerable notoriety on two occasions when altercations he got into over law practice resulted in quarrels. In August, 1912, he was arrested when a stenographer in the office of Charles L. Anderson, an attorney in the Laclede Building, called a policeman and complained that he had struck her employee.

In August, 1912, Justice of the Peace
Kessinger left the bench in the case
after receiving an invitation from Dillion to fight. Dillon objected to a decision of the Justice's, and a moment later the two were pummeling each other.

Dillon, in September, 1913, was called upon to explain a receipt received by a Deputy Circuit Clerk, when the Westlake Construction Co., for whom Dillion was attorney, sent the receipt in satisfaction of a judgment, which appeared to be raised from one cent to $89.31. The company sent the receipt to the court to see if it were correct. It appeared blurred.

Explained the Matter.
Dillon explained that the matter was a clerical error. He said he made the plaintiff to the suit, which was over automobile repairs, a tender of $80.91
in settlement of the claim, and then went to the Circuit Court and made a tender of 1 cent, in accordance with practice, which relieved the defendant of the burden of costs, providing the Court's finding is in accordance with the tender.
Dillon explained his clerk finding that the tender to the plaintiff and the Court
did not coincide, rubbed out the 1 cent and wrote in $80.91.

Paul Dillon was known among his friends as an inveterate gambler. He spent much of his time at gambling resorts in East St. Louis and the Tri-Cities shooting craps. He was considered at one time to have had a brilliant future through his natural talents and his family connections, as a lawyer, but it was through his gambling propensities he lost much of his practice. One of his most lucrative clients was the Westlake Construction Co., but that concern discharged him when the check transaction became public.

ORDER OF ARREST FOR PAUL DILLON, ATTORNEY, ISSUED

Two Women Clients Complainants Against Son of Late Judge Dillon.

AMOUNT INVOLVED IS $250

Lawyer Sought Is on Way to Mexico, Where Brother Dan Is Carranza's Agent.

A telephone order to the police to arrest Paul Dillon, an attorney and son of the late Circuit Judge Daniel Dillon, on a charge of embezzlement, was issued by Assistant Circuit Attorney Nelson Thomas today. Dillon is said to be on his way to Mexico City.

The order for the arrest of Dillon was made upon complaint of Mrs. L. W.
Bubb and Mrs. Augusta Poepping of 5347 Goodfellow place, who told Thomas that Dillon, as their attorney, had collected $250 for them on a damage claim against the Frank L. Dittmeier Real Estate Co. and had failed to pay them the money.

Women Made Settlement.
The two women said the case against the real estate company was tried in June and that a verdict for $250 in their favor was returned. They afterwards consented to a settlement for $250, they said.

Thomas called up Dittmeier, who said
over the telephone that he had made out the check to Dillon as attorney for the two women, and that the cancelled check, endorsed by Dillon, had been returned to him by his bank.

Mrs. Bubb and Mrs. Poepping said that they went to Dillon's office in the Title Guaranty Trust Building and found a note on the door that he would be back next Monday. Later, they saw an item in a newspaper, they said, that he had gone to Mexico, where his brother, Dan, is Carranza's publicity agent. They had made a search for him in an effort to get their money, but had been unable to find him, they told Thomas.

Thomas said that failure to deliver the money to the two clients constituted embezzlement, but that if Dillon was now in Mexico it was not likely that he could be extradited on account of the small sum involved. He said that other complaints against Dillon had been received. Thomas did not issue an information upon the complaint of the two women, but asked the police to try to find him.

Paul Dillon is one of a quartet of Dillon brothers who gained fame as football players in their college days.
Paul played at Washington University,
as did his brothers, "Jack" and "Billy."

Another brother, Dan, played at St.

SPEEDER UP FOR THIRD TIME, FINED $100 THIRD TIME

C. K. D. Walsh, Who Injured
Three Women, Escapes With Fifth of Maximum Penalty.

HE REFUSES TO TESTIFY

Was Racing to Avoid Arrest
When Machine Hit Truck, Bounded Against Limousine.

C. K. Dickson Walsh of 2628 Delmar boulevard was fined $100 in police court this morning on charges of speeding and carelessness. It was his third appearance there in seven months on a speeding charge. He had been fined $100 on each of the two previous charges. The maximum fine for speeding, or for carelessness, is $500.

Walsh is 43 years old, vice president of the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge and Terminal Co., a man of considerable wealth, and is a son of Julius S. Walsh, chairman of the board of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

Motor Cycle Policeman McKenna testified that Walsh was racing his Ford coupe at 5 p. m. yesterday to escape from him and Policeman Byrne who were pursuing him west on Lindell boulevard, from Spring avenue, to arrest him for speeding.

Walsh, he said, was maintaining a speed of at least 20 miles an hour. At Whittier street, the policeman testified, Walsh's coupe hit an auto truck which was turning north into Whittier from Lindell.

Housewife Against Woman's Limousine.
Walsh's car bounced from the truck swerved to the left, and struck an eastbound Cadillac touring car owned by Mrs. J. W. Cohn of 514 Westminister place. Mrs. Cohn, Mrs. Samuel Cohn of 5621 Berlin avenue, and Mrs. L. Mangle of 539 Kingsbury boulevard, who were in the machine, were all painfully hurt.
Walsh's machine was wrecked and the police were told the damage to the truck was $25 and to the Cohn machine about $50. Walsh was arrested.

After the collision in testimony, Assistant City Counselor Owsing asked Walsh if he cared to take the witness stand. Walsh, without comment, went on the stand.

"How fast were you going?" the prosecutor asked.

"I have no statement to make," Walsh replied.

"Have you not been fined twice before for speeding—twice on the same road?"

"I have nothing to say."

"Mr. Walsh," said Judge Hogan, "you are speeding too fast." Walsh did not reply, but held up his hand to his right ear, as he had done while the policeman was testifying, and while the prosecutor was questioning him, to hear what was being said.

"I'll fine you $50 in each case," Judge Hogan added, quickly. "Now what are you going to do?"

"I'll appeal," Walsh replied.

Arrested Twice in Six Hours.
Walsh was arrested twice within six hours, April 14, for speeding, and was fined $100 on each charge by Judge Hogan. The first of the two arrests was in Forest Park, after three motor cycle policemen pursued him out Lindell boulevard west of King's highway.

A few hours later he was arrested by one of the same three policemen at Locust street and Ewing avenue. The testimony in court was that Walsh's machine was going 45 miles an hour
the first time and 30 the second.

Walsh's wife, who was Miss Jessie Kehon, recently had her divorce.
The evidence was heard Nov. 12 by Judge Arnold, who took the case under advisement. He has been living at 14
Horton's place.

Speeder in Court Fourth Time Is Fined $100.

Clifford Hickel, 20 years old, of 3633
Wyoming street, was fined $100 in Judge Hogan's court this morning for speeding. His appearance in court was the fourth time in six months for violation of the speeding and traffic ordinances.

He was arrested last on Nov. 17 at Jefferson and Washington avenues, charged with operating his automobile
at a speed of 30 miles an hour.

Hickel was fined $5 June 3 for speeding. On Aug. 22 he was arrested for violation of traffic rules and careless driving and was fined $35. He was arrested again Sept. 25 for violation of the traffic rules, but was discharged in police court.

regiment which is being formed there.
It is understood that this regiment is being made up of Americans, who have volunteered to go to Europe to par-

Richardson was wounded three times in the battle of Ypres, and recently was discharged from further service.
He has made many calls, since his re-

5,085,165 PERSONS VISITED ATTRACTIONS AT CITY'S PARKS

Attendance Between April 1 and Nov. 1 Exceeds 1914—Concerts Biggest

Park Commissioner Cuniff announced today that approximately 5,085,165 persons visited the municipal attractions at the parks, the playgrounds and the swimming pools in St. Louis between April 1 and Nov. 1.

The attendance at the band concerts was estimated at 589,975. In 1914 the attendance was 570,950. The number of concerts was smaller this year, however,
and the average attendance was greater than last year.

The 34 municipal moving picture shows
were attended by about 438,000 persons.
It was estimated. Last year the 56 performances were attended by 304,000. The 27 municipal dances, given at parks,
were attended by about 97,000 persons.
The dances were inaugurated this year.

At the baseball games the attendance was 425,000, against 400,000 the year before. The estimated attendance at four Sunday football games was 40,000. Permits were issued to 6000 persons to play golf and 52,219 games were played, up to Nov. 1. The attendance at the tennis courts was 192,988, at the swimming pools 400,720 and at the bathhouses 616,525.
Park fountains were attended by 117,800.

BECKER TOO EASY ON HIS CUSTOMERS, GUSTIN DECLARES

"He Speculated Himself," Says Attorney, Friend of Broker Whose Firm Failed.

TELLS OF WEEK OF CRASH

St. Clair County Official in Charge of St. Louis House a Week—Books Gone Over.

Details of business transactions of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Payne & Becker for a few days prior to its failure were told today by R. V. Gustin, Assistant State's Attorney of St. Clair County, Ill., who also is attorney for Bontle A. Becker, a member of the firm.

Gustin said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that all of last week he was in personal charge of the brokerage office in the Chemical Building located between the St. Louis and the Union Pacific.

Each morning, Gustin said, he came to St. Louis from East St. Louis and took charge of the business. Each evening, he said, Becker met him in East St. Louis and received a report on the day's business.

Gustin said that, on reaching the office each morning he found a memorandum from Becker telling him specific things to do. One morning, he said, there was a memorandum telling him to sell 100 shares of Texas Pacific stock. He said he did so, thinking the stock belonged to Becker, but that afterward he found that it was the property of a man named Rosenthal, for whom the firm had purchased it. Gustin said Rosenthal did not get his money, about $1000. He said he also sold 25 shares of Utah Copper under the same circumstances, but that he never learned the real owner of the stock.

Collapse of the Firm. Gustin declared that, in his opinion, the collapse of the firm was due entirely to the action of a Chicago brokerage house in shutting off Payne & Becker's wire service. He said that, a year ago, the firm had debts amounting to $25,000, and that it had been able to reduce the amount of indebtedness to $30,000. With little more time, Gustin said, he believed the entire amount would have been wiped out. He said Becker never would explain to him the cause of the indebtedness nor where the money went, and that there were no books which would show.

Gustin said his actions as attorney for Becker were due to his personal friendship for him. "Becker had two faults," he said. "He was too easy with customers and he speculated himself."

Going Over the Books. John C. Tobin, receiver for Payne & Becker, had an expert accountant at work today on the books of the firm. The receiver said he would not be able to make any statement about the condition of the firm's affairs until this examination had been completed, which might be in a day or two or three days.

He knew, he said, what had brought about the failure, but was not in a position to disclose his information. Only two or three of the firm's customers knew before the assignment that anything of the kind was near, he said.

charges, were among the 15 dispatched with coal and other supplies for German cruisers. The Thor cleared from Newport News, Aug. 3, 1914, for Buenos Aires; the Umita, from Philadelphia, Sept. 8, 1914, for Cadiz, and the Somerstard was to have left Philadelphia, but did not, as her alleged plans became known.

Hasler testified that the Thor was captured by the allies and sold after the Hamburg-American Line afterward paid him her full value.

Robert T. Hasler, brother of Frederick F. Hasler, testified that the Thor was loaded with 192 tons of coal and that Supercargo Waller was placed aboard and in charge. Bruce McIntyre, the witness said, cleared the vessel.

On cross-examination it was brought out that the Hasler brothers were born in England and are both British subjects at present.

Unsuccessful by Defense. William Rand Jr., counsel for the defense, at this point, offered a concession in the form of a typewritten statement, showing that the Hamburg-American Line paid $1,419,384 for chartering, coaling and supplying 12 steamers for the relief of German warships. The concession was accepted by the Government.

These vessels were the Thor, Berwind, Lorenzo, Heina, Napos, Mowinkel, Unita, Somerstard, Fram, Graecia, Macedonia and Navarra. The amounts conceded to have been spent by the defendants were: For coal, $18,761; provisions, $29,149; supplies, $24,342; charter, $1,118,880; against which was a credit of $2,100 for supplies placed on the Somerstard and Fram, which did not sail, as planned.

Adolph Hochmeister, purchasing agent of the Hamburg-American line, bought the $200,000 worth of supplies, in large measure, Rand conceded. The most expensive boats were the Lorenzo and the Heina, whose cost was $430,132 and $288,145, respectively. Of the 10 ships that left port, the Graecia was the least expensive, her total cost being only $23,142. The Graecia was owned by the Hamburg-American line and her charter price was placed at only $725. Included

In the $300,182 charged against the Lorenzo apparently was the $350,000 repaid her owners as full value of the vessel after she had been sold under prize court orders.

Tells of Clearing the Thor. Norman Hamilton, Collector of the Port of Newport News, Va., testified that the Thor was cleared for the United States and that there was no mention of other supplies than coal in her manifest. The Government charges that she carried foodstuffs and other supplies.

Hamilton testified also that he cleared the steamer Maria Quersada, a Norwegian vessel, which, the Government charges, was chartered by the defendants for Valparaiso, Dec. 15, 1914. A man named Atkinson, Hamilton testified, took a special oath as shipper of the coal aboard the vessel and Brown, Williams testified that he was the shipper of the provisions.

Counsel for the defense, in conceding that about $2,000,000 of German money was expended in sending out supplies to sea raiders, denies that there was any intent to violate the United States Government. Evidence yesterday dealt with an expenditure of $750,000 under the alleged direction of Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, German Naval Attache. Of this amount, according to one of the Government's chief witnesses, $200,000 was sent to San Francisco to finance supply ships leaving the Pacific Coast ports.

The charge of conspiracy is so broad that it takes in about every act that it is contended can be proved to have been committed in this country during the first two months of the war in furtherance of German naval warfare. The prosecution expects that, before the trial is over, there will have been written into the record of the case a large part of the history of the raids of German commerce destroyers in the early part of the war.

The Government has nearly 50 witnesses still to be heard. Members of the crews of many of the supply ships will tell of being rescued by British war vessels that sunk or captured their ships. For 25 getting back, safely after their ships had completed their missions.

Details of Testimony Taken Yesterday. Gustave B. Kulenkampf, local German importer and exporter, told yesterday on the witness stand that he had been summoned to the Hamburg-American Line offices here, on the afternoon of Aug. 5, 1914, and there had met Dr. Buntz, John H. Gank, George Kotter and Adolph Hachmeister. They told him, he said, that they wanted him to clear two American steamers, the Lorenzo and the Berwind, loaded with coal, with all possible speed—that afternoon.

After a party according to Kulenkampf, he agreed to accommodate them and swear to the clearance manifests giving his name as shipper and his signature. The vessels sailed without delay; the Berwind that evening and the Lorenzo the next day.

Capt. Boy-Ed's alleged connection with the relief plan for German warships was told by Kulenkampf. After he got the Berwind and Lorenzo off his hands, he said, he went back to his business and for nearly a month he heard nothing more. Then a bank messenger, bearing advice that a large sum of money was deposited to his account at Speyer and company's here, called on him. Other messengers came soon afterward and by Sept. 5 he had $750,000 on deposit at Speyer & Co., none of which was owing to him and all of which was entirely unexpected.

Money From Berlin. "What was the next development?" he was asked.

"A man called me on the telephone," Kulenkampf replied, "and said he was Capt. Boy-Ed and that the money was to be spent as he said. I told him to present proof that such was the case and not long afterward a representative here of the Deutsche Bank of Berlin called on me and told me that the man was Capt. Boy-Ed and that the money was to be spent as he said."

"Did you spend it as Capt. Boy-Ed told you to do?"

"I did. The first disbursement was $200,000. I was told to telegraph $100,000 to the Nevada National Bank at San Francisco, and I did so."

Kulenkampf told in detail of other disbursements, all of which he said had been ordered by Capt. Boy-Ed.

It developed, according to succeeding witnesses, that Capt. Kulenkampf of the Berwind had sworn to a manifest, giving the shipment aboard the vessel as coal and that a supplemental manifest was not made till the next day to cover certain cases of provisions and oils which a gang of stevedores had been loading on the Berwind all day and night. For swearing falsely to the manifest, it developed, Capt. Kulenkampf was fined $500 by the port authorities here last December. This money was paid, in the Captain's behalf, by the New York and Porto Rico Steamship Co., the Berwind's owners.

"And was the $500 repaid to you?" Attorney Wood asked Franklin D. Mooney, president of the company.

"It was," Mooney testified. "It came to us through our attorneys. I understand they received it from the Hamburg-American line."

Sealed Instructions Given.

Edward J. Berwind, head of the coal company bearing his name, testified that his firm had sold coal to the Hamburg-American line for more than 25 years. The Lorenzo and the Berwind, it was testified, sailed with supercargoes placed aboard by the Hamburg-American line. The supercargoes, the Government charges, carried sealed instructions to be opened after sailing in the case of all 16 ships on which the charges were based and, it is alleged, in some cases these instructions were opened and the supercargo assumed command before the sailing had passed beyond the three-mile limit over which the United States exercises jurisdiction.

Prior to the taking of testimony yesterday Attorney Wood said he would prove that "the defendants rode rough shod over the laws and treaties of the United States as contemptuously as if they were laws and treaties of some scraps of paper." His charge that $750,000 had been spent in equipping ships was admitted by Attorney William Rand for the defense who said that the amount was $2,000,000, but he denied that there had been any intent to defraud.

DANIELS ASKS FOR BIDS FOR STEEL ON TWO BATTLESHIPS

Secretary Takes First Step With View to Building Vessels in Government Yards.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Secretary Daniels announced today that he had taken the first step with a view to building in Government navy yards battleships numbers 43 and 44, private bids for which were invited by the department last week. The department has asked steel makers to submit bids for these two ships.

All private bids for the ships opened last week exceeded $3,000,000, while the limit fixed by Congress was $7,800,000 for the cost of hulls and machinery. Navy yard estimates were below the $7,800,000 mark.

Attorney General Says Such Power Was Not Delegated by Congress, Which Has Sole Authority.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Attorney General Gregory's opinion holding that the Federal Reserve Board has no authority under the reserve act to reduce the number of Federal reserve districts, was made public today by the board.

Gregory holds that the question involved is whether the board can abolish a district and thereby also abolish a reserve bank. He holds that such power was not granted by Congress in express terms, and adds:

"I am of the opinion that the failure to confer such a power in express terms should be regarded by the courts as virtually conclusive that Congress did not intend it to be exercised except by itself."

BIDS ASKED ON FAIR BUILDINGS

LANSING SEES NO VIOLATION OF LAW BY CAPT. BOY-ED

No Guilt in Financing Raiders Unless With Knowledge of False Swearing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Secretary Lansing made it clear today that, so far as he was able to judge, Capt. Boy-Ed, the German naval attache, was not guilty of any violation of law in supplying funds, as testified, in the Buenos Aires trial yesterday, for the sending of American ports of Hamburg-American vessels to provision German warships at sea.

The Secretary pointed out that the matter could not become a subject for cognizance of the State Department unless it were proved in the cases now on trial in New York that Capt. Boy-Ed had knowledge of the false registration which Hamburg-American Line agents are charged with having made in order to get clearance for their vessels. State Department officials do not understand that Capt. Boy-Ed is so charged, but that the references to him in the case are only incidental.

Secretary Lansing holds that the arrangement to supply belligerent vessels at sea was not a violation of law, unless it also was proved that the same warship at sea was being repeatedly supplied from American ports. No proof to that effect is in possession of the State Department.

It was pointed out officially, however, that the State Department, to ask for the recall of any diplomatic officer, does not require legal proof of any violation of law but can always act on the general principle of obnoxious activity.

Secretary Lansing explained the while the State Department had knowledge of the evidence on which the cases in New York were being prosecuted, the statements being made by Assistant District Attorney Wood with reference to Captain Kulenkampf, that the approval or disapproval of the State Department, State Department officials are watching the case with close interest, however, to see if any new disclosures are made bearing on Capt. Boy-Ed's activities.

ROWE LABEL SUIT AGAINST CAPT. JOHNSON IS DROPPED

Plaintiff's Father Files Memorandum Saying Judgment Would Be "Water Haul."

The $30,000 bill suit of Henry Rowe against Police Capt. James Johnson, growing out of Rowe's arrest on complaint of Miss Willie Murphy, 15 years old, at 385 West Pine boulevard, April 27, was dismissed in the Circuit Court today by Rowe's father, Attorney Thomas J. Rowe Sr., who filed a peculiar memorandum.

A judgment against Johnson, the memorandum says, would be a water haul because Capt. Johnson made a tax return last year of only $250 personal property and has no real estate in the city and no visible and tangible real or personal property subject to execution.

It would be a willful waste of time and money to prosecute to a successful issue, the memorandum says, and consequently it is dismissed at the plaintiff's cost.

Attorney Rowe says that another suit for $10,000 against Johnson, for false imprisonment, will be tried for the sake of vindicating young Rowe.

STIX, BAER & FULLER CO. SAYS "RUNNERS" ANNOY CUSTOMERS

Prosecuting Attorney Siders Point Out That No Specific Law Covers the Offense.

Charles A. Stix, president of the Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co. (the Grand Leader) complained to the police today that "runners" employed by small stores on Franklin avenue and Market street were annoying customers of his store by approaching them outside the store and trying to induce them to trade at the stores represented by the "runners."

A policeman sent to Prosecuting Attorney Siderer was informed that there was no specific law covering the case, and that the only charge which could be maintained would be that of disturbance of the peace. In such a prosecution the person approached would have to be the complaining witness.

Capt. Schoppe of the Carr Street Police District, said that he would instruct policemen to take the "runners" to the police station, where he would warn them that if they did not stop the practice he would prosecute them.

HOLDS BOARD CANNOT REDUCE NUMBER OF RESERVE BANKS

Attorney General Says Such Power Was Not Delegated by Congress, Which Has Sole Authority.

U. S. MUST DEFEND RIGHTS, KEYNOTE OF THE MESSAGE

President Will Point Out America's Humanitarian Mission Peace.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Wilson's annual message to Congress, which has heretofore taken the form of an address in person, is receiving its finishing touches today. The Cabinet heard the document yesterday and gave it unanimous approval. As was reported yesterday, the feature of the message, it is understood, will be a discussion of national defense and revenues, although other questions are to be taken up—merchandise, marine, conservation, greater self-government for the Philippines and rural credits. The message will declare that the United States has a humanitarian mission of peace in the world and therefore must be ready to defend its right to independence and unmolested action. Secretary Garrison's army plans will be strongly supported.

The President, as he did last year, will hold that it is proper for young men to learn to be soldiers and expresses the belief that the plans submitted by the army general staff call for a standing force larger than the country wants. As to the navy, the President will point out that it is necessary to have a fleet of battleships and equipment as it is to build warships.

The President has notified the Democratic leaders in both Senate and House who have called upon him in the last few days that he desires appropriations for rivers, harbors and buildings held down to the minimum. He has pointed out that the money that will be required for the army and navy in the next few years will necessitate the paring down of other expenditures.

DALLAS MAN KILLS LAWYER IN FORT WORTH, THEN HIMSELF

Had Been Indicted for Fraudulent Use of the Mails in a Bankruptcy Case.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 24.—H. O. Ledgerwood, an attorney, and J. N. Whisenant of Dallas, are dead, following a shooting in Ledgerwood's office this morning. Whisenant is said to have killed the lawyer first, then himself.

The Dallas man was recently indicted here for fraudulent use of the mails in connection with a bankruptcy case.

Miss Mary Melton, Ledgerwood's stenographer, the Chicago Office of the police, says Whisenant entered the office at 9 o'clock, walked to Ledgerwood's desk, cried "You've done me dirt" and fired.

The killings are believed to have been a result of a bankruptcy case in which Ledgerwood was the attorney for the Buffalo company, a clothing concern, now in receivership, and Ledgerwood, as trustee, were concerned.

WOMAN FOUND WITH BRUISES SAYS HUSBAND KICKED HER

Policeman Reports Row Started When Man With Another Woman Was Seen at Chicken Show.

Policemen called to a drug store at Jefferson and Washington avenues last night found Mrs. Ollie Miller, 38 years old, of 3333 Morgan street, receiving emergency treatment there. Mrs. Miller told them her husband, Bert Miller, had kicked her when she tried to follow him onto a Page car.

Mrs. Miller was taken to the city hospital where doctors officially reported that she was suffering from bruises and alcoholism.

In his report, a policeman said he learned that Mrs. Miller went to the poultry show at the Coliseum and found her husband there with another woman. When Miller saw his wife he ran, the report said, and she was injured while trying to follow him onto a car. Policemen sent to the Miller home reported that Miller was not there.

UNDERSEA BOAT DROWNED ITS INVENTOR ON TRIP IN THE CHICAGO RIVER—TO BE RAISED.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The submarine "Foolkiller," which has been missing for 25 years, has been found at the bottom of the Chicago River. It will be raised and preserved.

The "Foolkiller" was so called because it first made its appearance in 1871, when submarines were unheard of, and drowned its original owner when it made a trial trip.

The boat was on the bottom of the river yesterday found the craft buried in three feet of mud. The boat is clear aloft, about forty feet in length and five feet wide. It was so constructed that it sank until all that was unsubmerged was an airship which stood up 10 feet from the deck.

POLICE HUNT FOR 'MR. SPARKER' IN LOTTERY EPISODE

Salesman Under Arrest. Says Tickets Were Handed to Him by Man of That Name.

Meyer Rosenstein of 1465 Blackstone avenue, a novelty salesman in the Gay Building, is held by the Circuit Attorney and Federal authorities following his arrest yesterday afternoon when detectives found lottery tickets and marked money in his pockets.

Rosenstein denies that he had the lottery tickets for sale and the police admit that they have no evidence against him except his possession of the tickets, which he said he was keeping for another man.

The police are looking for a man who called himself "Mr. Sparker," who is believed to be the real lottery agent in the case.

Arresting Rosenstein the police were aided by George Conrad Nagel of Webster Groves, a Washington University student, who is assistant business manager of Student Life, a university magazine. Rosenstein has a desk room in the office where the magazine is printed in the Gay Building.

Nagel made frequent visits to the printing office and became acquainted with Rosenstein.

Called Up by "Mr. Sparker." About a week ago, according to Nagel, he was called on the telephone at his home. A man at the other end of the line, who said he was "Mr. Sparker," suggested that Nagel could make money selling lottery tickets to Washington University students. Nagel said that in a spirit of adventure and hoping to get material for a story for Student Life, he fell in with the plan and "Mr. Sparker" then told him he could get the lottery tickets from Rosenstein.

About a week ago, Nagel says, he went to the printing office and Rosenstein handed him a package containing 50 tickets issued by a lottery company doing business in New Orleans and Chicago.

Nagel sold $150 worth of tickets to fellow students and then told his father, Leonard Nagel, a teacher, what he had done. The father consulted a private detective agency and young Nagel was advised to see Circuit Attorney Harvey. On Harvey's advice he took city detectives into his confidence. The detectives bought $35 worth of tickets from him and marked the money they paid him. They also marked the money Nagel had received from student purchasers.

Unsold Tickets and Money. Yesterday afternoon Nagel went to Rosenstein's office to make his return. Rosenstein accepted the unsold tickets and the money. Detectives waited until Rosenstein left his office and arrested him.

Rosenstein made a straightforward statement, in which he said a man who introduced himself as "Mr. Sparker" visited his office and sold a lottery ticket to him and then asked him to deliver a package to young Nagel. He said he had never sold a lottery ticket and was not an agent for a lottery ticket. He accepted the return from Nagel as an accommodation to "Sparker," he said. Rosenstein described Sparker and detectives recognized the description of a man who recently was arrested as a lottery agent suspect, but released when no evidence was found on which to hold him.

WILL ASK CITY FOR PERMITS IN SECTIONS WHICH HERETOFORE IT HAS BEEN EXCLUDED FROM.

The Laclede Gas Light Co., through its president, C. L. Holman, today made public his intention to expand its electric business with a view of becoming a more formidable rival of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.

For several years the Laclede company has been furnishing electric current, but has been hampered in its operations by the refusal of the City Lighting Department to grant permits to it for stringing wires in some sections of the city.

In view of the city's decision last week to grant permits to the Light and Development Co., the Laclede will renew its applications for permits which would enable it to furnish current in parts of the city from which it is now excluded.

PRICE FOR SITE OF GROVER CLEVELAND SCHOOL NOT HIGH

ITNER TO GET $23,985

Architect's Commission Covers Even Furniture Installed in New Building.

The Tenth Ward Improvement Association, at a meeting last Sunday, decided to ask an investigation of expenditure by the Board of Education on the Grover Cleveland High School, the largest in the city, when a communication from the board was received informing the association that a night school could not be operated at the high school because there were no available funds.

The association's action followed a speech by Henry C. Koenig, former member of the school board, who said the Cleveland High School site was purchased at $15 a front foot when property in the vicinity, some of which he himself owned, was selling for $35 a front foot.

Koenig also said the board paid a commission of 5 per cent to an architect on the cost of constructing and equipping the school, although it employs an architect as Building Commissioner at a salary of $500 a year.

Koenig urged that an explanation of these things be asked of the school board, and the request of the association for a night school service be renewed.

$60,000 Paid for Site.
A Post-Dispatch reporter investigated the statements made by Koenig, and gathered information on the subjects as follows:

The site of the high school, a long strip on the north side of Osceola street, between Virginia and Grand avenues, was purchased through a real estate dealer, Feb. 25, 1911, for $80,000, the Interstate Warehouse and Realty Co. The property included 8.3 acres, improved with vineyards, and was held by the warehouse company for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing interests, as part of a proposed right of way for an underground steam railroad to emerge west of Grand avenue. In the warranty deed given the school board, the warehouse company reserved an easement to the Manufacturers' Railway (Bush road), to construct a subway beneath the school buildings to be erected.

After the property was acquired the school board spent $27,486.58 to grade it, making its total cost as a school site $107,486.58, or about $12,000 an acre.

The site has a frontage on Osceola street of 123 feet, on Grand avenue of 341 feet and on Virginia avenue of 263 feet. The school board has consulted Director of Streets Talbert and obtained his indorsement to the opening of Bingham avenue east from Grand avenue to Virginia avenue, abutting this school site on the north, which would give the school a frontage on four streets.

The property contains 23,315 square feet, making its cost, exclusive of grading, about 15 cents per square foot. The average cost of school sites in the past 10 years, according to Charles P. Mason, secretary-treasurer of the school board, is 27 cents per square foot, and the Cleveland High site is considered by Mason one of the cheapest purchases made in recent years. Calculated on the frontage basis, the property cost about $50 per front foot, exclusive of grading, if Bingham avenue is not opened. If Bingham avenue is opened as planned, the cost per front foot will be about $25.

Option on Adjoining Tract.
H. C. Koenig, president of the Missouri Press Brick Co., when interviewed by a reporter, said he was informed the Cleveland site cost $60,000 plus $27,000 for grading. He said he held an option to purchase the adjoining parcel of ground to the north for $13,000, a short time before the school board made its purchase and he was informed of the deal.

An investigation of this site by a reporter shows that it contains 8.7 acres, and is a strip of the same length as the Grover Cleveland High site, but is only 230 feet deep on Grand avenue and 236 feet on Virginia.

This property was sold July 6, 1909, for $30,000, to Ella C. Prunty, according to records at the city hall. On the same day, the records show, it was transferred by W. L. Ewing to Sarah E.

FIRE HAZARDS ARE FOUND IN 28 SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Commissioner McKelvey Advises Changes in Stairways and Doors—Would Do Away With Wooden Corridors in Temporary Quarters.

Building Commissioner McKelvey yesterday filed with the Board of Education a complaint about 28 school buildings, following the annual inspection of all school buildings by his department. Doors which open inward or swing both ways on their hinges and wooden corridors and stairways are the objectionable features in the schools which the Building Commissioner has asked the board to remedy.

Doors open inward at the Garden-ville School Annex, Riddick and Manual Training schools, and would be dangerous in case of fire or panic, the commissioner says.

Where Changes Are Urged.
At the Harris Reister College, Yeatman and McKinley High schools and the Marshall, Cote Brillante, Field, Mann, Howard, Clay, Emerson, Clinton and Wyman schools, the exits are equipped with what are termed "double doors" which are termed "double doors" by the commissioner. These are objectionable and would be dangerous in the event of fire or panic, he points out, as they might swing back and knock down those following the exits in the rush to get out. The commissioner recommends the removal of these doors, although they are not in violation of the building laws.

Many of the special schools, the commissioner found, have wooden stairways and corridors. These are in most cases only temporary schools maintained in old residence buildings. Commissioner McKelvey recommended to the board that wooden corridors and stairways be abolished even in temporary quarters.

Violations at Private Schools.
Among private and parochial schools, 41 violations of ordinances were found. Of these 39 were of schools which have one or more doors which opened in instead of out. Hosmer Hall, an exclusive school for girls at 4286 Washington boulevard, was found to have wooden stairways and corridors. It is a three-story building. The ordinances prohibit wooden stairways and corridors in school buildings more than two stories high.

The Polish Franciscan School at 3412 Grand avenue, a three-story building, also was found to have wooden stairways and corridors. Building Commissioner McKelvey said that when his report is completed he will summon those out of charge of the various school buildings which do not meet the provisions of the ordinances, and urge that changes be made. If there are any refusals of his demands, he said, he will institute prosecutions.

HYPHEN AN HONOR, SAYS DR. HEXAMER AT MASS MEETING

Administration 'Contemptible,' Declares German-American Alliance President.

'UNDER ENGLISH YOKE'

Attacks Made at Milwaukee on His Appearance as Advocate of American Neutrality.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 24.—When Dr. C. J. Hexamer of Philadelphia, president of the German-American Alliance, appeared in a Milwaukee meeting of German-Americans Monday night, it was as an advocate of American neutrality. He gave out an advance copy of his address in English, but his spoken version, as reported by the German Herald, contained attacks upon the President, which were not to be found in the copy given out to the American newspapers.

The audience of 5000 sang "America" and "Die Wacht am Rhein." The attitude of the German press toward the meeting was a neutrality gathering was expressed in one newspaper's introduction to the report of the meeting, which declared "Germany last night spoke to her children, spoke loudly and clearly, and awakened an enthusiastic, spirited echo in the hearts of thousands."

In the afternoon edition of the same newspaper this introduction was modified to announce that a great demonstration marked the tenth anniversary of the Wisconsin German-American Alliance.

Phrases as Translated.
The attacks on the administration by Dr. Hexamer, translated, are in English among the following phrases: "Accursed he who sows in our most beautiful land, our glorious republic, the seeds of racial discord, be his name Theodore or Woodrow." "Who dares say that we have no right in this country that we should leave it?"

"We have the right and will let no one take it from us—much less people of their sort." "We have never had so miserable, weak-kneed, contemptible an administration as the present." "We do not wish to establish a new political machine. A party based upon racial or religious differences would be a calamity to the country. The German-American has enough common sense to know how to vote when the proper 'me comes'."

"We want to spread German ideals for the benefit of our country; and we consider the hyphen an honor." "America, but of a German-Americanism." "I believe that he who must be told what he shall eat and drink is not a man, but a dishrag." "Under English Yoke." "We must free this country from the English yoke, under which it now labors."

"I have traveled this country over, and have conversed with men in all stations, from the negro porter on the train to the Governors of state—and I believe that the people as a whole are neutral and want to remain neutral. They do not want war." "Do not be deceived by the lies in the Anglo-American press. The American is coming to see the truth and with characteristic humanity is beginning to dub the allies the all-lies."

"The British are stopping American shipping at will. And this the vaunted American freedom of the twentieth century." "Let us free this country from the shame under which it now rests."

CITY BUYS 4000 POUNDS OF TURKEY FOR THANKSGIVING

Inmates of Public Institutions Will Be Well Fed as Part of Day's Celebration.

Banks, Brokerage Firms, Department Stores, Schools Will Not Open.

In the morning there will be services in all churches, and at 10 a. m. in the various public and private parks games of football and soccer will be played to decide supremacy of schools or athletic leagues.

The city of St. Louis has made elaborate preparations to entertain the sick and unfortunate in its institutions. PARENTS REFUSE TO HAVE DEFECTIVE BABY'S LIFE SAVED

Will Not Allow Operation in New York Case Similar to Recent One in Chicago.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A case resembling that of the Bollinger baby of Chicago developed here today when a physician was confronted with the question whether the life of a defective baby should be saved by a surgical operation despite the wishes of the parents that the child be allowed to die.

The baby, a girl born last night. Mentally it appears to be normal, but is paralyzed below the waist, has club feet, distorted knee joints and a spinal ailment which, physicians say, will prove fatal if an operation is not soon performed.

Dr. Julius Goldsmith, the attending physician, who notified the parents that the child's life could be saved only by a prompt operation, said that they refused absolutely to give their permission that it be performed.

"I probably could save the child's life, although it would always remain helplessly crippled," Dr. Goldsmith said. "There is no action I can take, however, without the permission of the parents."

"I believe the Chicago physician was right," the father of the defective baby said. "For the sake of humanity I had rather see this child die now than to live seven or eight years in misery and suffering. I think it would be better for all concerned. The doctors tell me an operation would only prolong its life and that it would never be well. Even though the operation were performed, they say it would always be paralyzed below the waist."

"If the baby's imperfections were a small thing it would be a different matter. I would not want to sacrifice its life under such circumstances. But what would be the use of letting it live? It always would be a cripple and a charge to its parents and society. It is a hard thing to say but it would be better dead."

YOU'RE BILIOUS! TAKE "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Don't stay headachy, sick, or have bad breath and sour stomach.
Wake up feeling fine! Best laxative for men, women and children.

Enjoy life! Remove the liver poison and other injurious matter which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive, and your stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store and eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken like salts, pills and calomel. They act so gently that you hardly realize you have taken a cathartic. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time—they act thoroughly and are harmless.—ADV.

SEVERE BRONCHIAL COUGH Yields Quickly to Vinol.

Here is another letter we are permitted to publish for the benefit of St. Louis people who suffer from chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis. Teaneck, N. J., says: "I suffered from a severe bronchial cough. I had bad coughing spells and became so weak it was hard for me to go to business day after day. I tried various medicines and doctor's prescriptions without benefit. Through a friend I learned of Vinol and after taking one bottle my bronchial trouble was better. Its continued use stopped the cough, built me up, and I gained in weight."
It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of cod livers, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron and beef peptone, which makes Vinol a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, and at the same time it will build up the weakened, run-down system and re-establish strength.
Don't forget we return your money if it fails to give you satisfaction. Vinol is sold in St. Louis by the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and by all other drug stores in St. Louis that display the Vinol Agency sign.—ADV.

Found a Simple Remedy That Relieved This Child

Mild Laxative Compound Corrects Stubborn Case of Constipation.

An important duty that devolves on parents is the regulation of their children's bowels. Health in later life depends in large measure on early training and a child should be taught from infancy to regular habits.

When from any cause the bowel becomes congested with stomach waste a mild laxative should be employed. A most effective remedy for this purpose is the combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. W. D. Bulls, of Reed, Okla., used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for her baby boy, Harley Buren Bulls, and says "It did him more good than anything we have given him. His bowels are very stubborn about acting, but they act easily every time I give him Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains no opiate or narcotic drug and is a splendid remedy for children and older people as well. It has

"WHAT EVERY WOMAN KNOWS" IS ENTERTAININGLY PLAYED

Maude Adams and Dallas Anderson Have Chief Parts in Barrie Comedy at Olympic.

"There are few more impressive sights in the world than a Scotchman on the make." This solemn utterance of John Shand, in the Barrie play, "What Every Woman Knows," was borne out by the work of Maude Adams and her capable associates at the Olympic Theater last night. Dallas Anderson was a most forceful John Shand. There was a deep underlying humor in his portrayal of the ambitious, bumptious young Scot who had no sense of humor, and who, when told that it took a surgical operation to get a joke into a Scotchman's head, replied that he could not understand how a surgical operation would produce that result.

Miss Adams' part as Maggie Wylie, later Mrs. Shand, is essentially different from that of Lady Babbie in "The Little Minister," which she played the night before. Instead of a quiet, almost spinsterly person, whose laughter is more of the eyes than of the voice. Her work in the second act, when amid conflicting emotions she offers Shand his freedom from their written contract of betrothal, was finely done. "What Every Woman Knows" is tonight's bill, and will be given at tomorrow's matinee and Friday night.

This pure Kentucky tobacco is the great favorite with men of vigor. It is full-bodied and satisfying. It gets its pleasant richness from the natural aging we give it for three to five years. And that is what keeps its quality up, always the same, no matter what the year's crop may be.

has always given prime pleasure to hardy men. A U. S. MARINE man never switches to another brand; he knows he's losing time and pleasure on a needless experiment. Many brands come and go into the discard—while U. S. MARINE holds old friends and makes new ones every day.

There's a snappy taste to U. S. MARINE that policemen and other big fellows like. It's got that man-size quality about it; not one of those insipid, next-to-nothing tobaccos—but the big king-brand for the he-men on the force.

Head Stopped Up? Can't Breathe? Try the Vick Vap-O-Rub Treatment

Applied in Salve Form Over Throat and Chest Relieves by Inhalation and Absorption.

Vapor treatments are best for inflammations of the air passages. The vapors carry the medication direct to the inflamed surfaces without disturbing the stomach, as internal medicines will do. A very convenient vapor treatment is a good application of Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Salve over the throat and chest, covered with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases vapors that are inhaled with every breath, opening the air passages, loosening the phlegm and healing the raw surfaces. For deep chest colds, first apply hot wet towels to open the pores. Vick's is then absorbed through the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness. 25c, 50c, vapor treatment is a good application or $1.00.—ADV.

PUBLIC HEARING FRIDAY ON PARK ENTRANCE PLAN

Municipal Art Commission to Receive Protests Against Forest Park Change.

A public hearing upon the plan of Park Commissioner Cunliffe for changing the entrance to Forest Park at Lindell boulevard at a cost of $40,000 will be held at the city hall at 2:30 p. m. Friday, in charge of the Municipal Art Commission. Commissioner Cunliffe laid the entrance plan, together with several minor plans, before the City Plan Commission and declared that the commission had no right, legally, to pass upon them.

The City Plan Commission, however, by a vote of 5 to 4, decided that it would pass upon all plans for a park entrance and park traffic. The St. Louis Art League has sent a letter to E. R. Kinsey, President of the Board of Public Service, protesting against the plan for a new park entrance.

Kelner Has New Plan.
Robert H. Kelner of 44 Portland place, who has made a study of traffic, presented to the City Plan Commission yesterday a plan for the Lindell boulevard entrance, in a letter in which he also protested against the plan proposed by Commissioner Cunliffe. He enumerated his objections as follows:

1. That it destroyed the present very beautiful and magnificent entrance to Forest Park.
2. That it is absolutely unnecessary and requires a great expenditure of money, and while it does not solve the traffic problem, but in-

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge when it is not unpleasant. Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headache or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.—ADV.

Robert Keiser's Plan for Lindell Entrance to Forest Park

stead removed the congestion further into the park. It also creates a greater danger to pedestrians by increasing the number of crossings where traffic is most congested.

2. According to its dimensions, in the newspapers, it will destroy ten and a fraction acres of beautiful grass and trees and transform same into a mass of granite and formal flower beds.

3. The public press are a unit in opposing this plan, as well as a large number of our most prominent citizens. If I am not incorrectly informed it is also opposed by the Real Estate Exchange, the Art League, the Civic League and the Architects Club and Police Commissioner McPheters.

The plan suggested by Keiser retains almost all of the features of the present entrance, but enlarges the space by changing the present traffic circle to an oval.

In explaining the plan Keiser suggests that the oval may be used either as a grass plot, retaining the Blair statue in its present location, or made into a basin with a fountain at either end.

Points of Convergence.
His plan provides for westbound traffic on Lindell entering the park at the west-end of the oval, where there is a roadway 100 feet wide, which gives almost a straight line of drive from Lindell into Grand Drive. The only place, according to the plan, in which traffic crosses itself is where the east-bound traffic on Lindell enters the park at the west end of the oval, converging with other traffic at this point and at King's highway and Lindell, where there is a right-hand crossing.

Kelner points out in his letter how any trouble arising from these crossings upon Sundays or holidays, may easily be taken care of by police regulations, and he advocates the use of semaphores. He adds that the changes he proposes can be made at little cost and that the pavilion remains where it is at present.

Saxon Motor Co. Being Financed.
A new $5,000,000 company, it is announced will soon acquire the Saxon Motor Co. The new company, bearing the same, or a similar name, is financed by Merrill, Lynch & Co. of New York and Detroit. The $5,000,000 common stock will be issued to the general public at $75 a share. No preferred stock or bonds will be issued and there will be no liabilities except those incidental to current operations.

The officers of the new corporation will be Harry W. Ford, president; Leo Counselman, vice president and Lincoln Scafe, treasurer. The principal offices and plant will continue to be in Detroit. The Saxon company ranks as the tenth largest automobile manufacturing concern in the world. The net earnings for the year are stated to be $850,000 on a production of 17,000 machines.

To meet the demand for production of at least 30,000 cars in 1916 the capacity of the present plant will be doubled. It is estimated that the profits from the 20,000 cars will be in excess of $1,500,000.

MAN IS STRUCK BY SPEEDING AUTO AS HE GETS OFF CAR

Benjamin Sigaloff Is Badly Hurt and John R. Thomas, 20, Is Arrested.

Benjamin J. Sigaloff of 5338 Henrietta street was hit by a speeding automobile and dragged 90 feet when he alighted from the front platform of a Fourth street car at Theresa and Lafayette avenues at 2 a. m. today. The automobile was driven by John R. Thomas, 20-year-old son of Benjamin F. Thomas, a Kirkwood real estate dealer. Thomas admitted to the police that he was driving at about 35 miles an hour, a clear violation of the speed law.

Sigaloff, who is 22 years old, was badly bruised, his scalp was cut and his back injured. He was taken to the city hospital. Thomas was arrested and remained the balance of the night in the Magnolia Avenue Police Station awaiting bond.

The police will lay the facts in the case before the Circuit Attorney and seek a warrant against Thomas. Thomas told the police that while he was driving fast he did not think the street car from which Sigaloff alighted was going to stop.

Henry F. Westerbrook of 6329 Vermont avenue, riding a motorcycle, collided with an automobile driven by Joseph C. Ebels of 487 Minnesota avenue last night. He was thrown from his motorcycle and he was bruised and cut.

Edward Johnson of 5975 Highland avenue drove his automobile into an iron trolley pole in the middle of Union avenue, 100 feet north of Delmar avenue, last night. Arthur J. Knoll of 1538 Irving avenue, who was riding in the car with Johnson, was cut by glass from the broken windshield.

FATHER OF GIRL KEPT PRISONER IN ROOM IS ARRESTED

Frank Marshall Charged With Assault With Intent to Murder; Wife With Assault.

EASTON, Md., Nov. 24.—Frank Marshall, father of Grace Marshall, who was kept a prisoner in the Marshall home for 11 years, is in the Easton jail charged with assault with intent to murder. A subsequent writ charges Mrs. Marshall with assault.

The warrants were obtained by Miss Emma Davis, agent for the Children's Aid Society, who was instrumental in securing Miss Marshall's liberation last week.

Marshall, in his cell, declared that he had been outrageously treated.

"Grace got everything in the world I could give her," he said, adding that "she ate everything she could get and ate it ravenously."

The young woman was reported to be in a serious condition at the home of her aunt, where she was taken from her father's house.

Miss Mary E. Townsend, who formerly lived in St. Michaels, but now lives at Baltimore, today told the story of Grace Marshall's life. She said the girl had been locked up because she had planned to elope with Jasper Yewell, a white-haired man of advanced years, whose daughter had married Miss Marshall's uncle. Afterward it was rumored that the girl had become mentally unbalanced, and the rumor was strengthened, she said, when it was learned that Miss Marshall had jumped from a window and broken her leg.

"Grace met her aged suitor at the home of her uncle, her father's brother, Oliver Marshall, who had a farm in the Bay Side district, a few miles from St.

Michaels," said Miss Townsend. "Grace was only 15 years old at that time. "It was rumored at the time that the father learned of the attention the old man was paying his daughter and he brought her home. I saw her once after that and she acted unusual for a girl of her age, but it appeared as if she was frightened. She sat alone and remained quiet the whole time I was at the place, and indeed seemed to be suffering from melancholia.

"Grace was an apt pupil and always was among those to stand at the head of her class. Always frail, I don't see how she withstood the confinement."

Capt. John Townsend, father of Miss Townsend, a farmer, said he often worked for Marshall. He had dined at the home and had not even heard Grace's name mentioned.

Mrs. Emma Thompson, whose daughter is the girl's stepmother, corroborated today statements made by the father of Grace Marshall to the effect that Miss Marshall was mentally unbalanced, which she attributed to the attentions of her aged admirer. She said she had made several attempts to get the girl into some institution, but had abandoned

U.S. AT WAR NOW BUT DOESN'T KNOW IT, SAYS MAXIM

Inventor Points to "Conflicts" With England, Germany and Mexico.

AMERICA, LAMB RAMPANT

In Talk at Planters Hotel He Insists Army Would Make Only
"One Day's Good Killing."

Hudson Maxim, expert on explosives and advocate of military preparedness, told the Business Men's League at today's luncheon at the Planters Hotel that the United States must build a navy big enough to stand against any other navy in the world, and an army
big enough and with guns and ammunition enough to defend the country if the navy should be destroyed. Anything less than this, he declared, would be worse than nothing.

He said to a Post-Dispatch reporter,
before the luncheon, that he had found greater interest in the Middle West, and particularly in Kansas City, in the matter of preparedness, than even in the southeast cities of the East. He had not, at that time, been in St. Louis long enough to form an estimate of the feeling in this city.

Maxim is 62 years old, has picturesque white hair and beard and a face as ruddy as a farm lad's. He wears an artificial left hand. He is the younger brother of Sir Hiram Maxim, now a British subject, and has for years been at enmity with him, through a dispute
as to the credit for some of the inventions which have made the family name famous. Hiram Percy Maxim of Connecticut, inventor of the Maxim silencer, is the son of Sir Hiram.

Author as well as inventor,
Hudson Maxim is the inventor of several improved grades of smokeless powder, of motor torpedoes, a self-combustible material for driving automobile torpedoes, of a torpedo ram and of other explosive compositions and mechanical devices which have been sold to the United States Government. He is a member of the Naval Advisory Board recently appointed by Secretary Daniels and is the author of various books, among them
"Defenseless America," a book recently published.

"We are at war with England today,
and don't know it," he said in his interview before luncheon. "We have been at war with Mexico two years and haven't known it. We have been at war with Germany since last May, and haven't known it. The United States is a lamb rampant, ready for the first beast of prey that comes this way."

Maxim is in St. Louis as a poorly provided with munitions of war as with men, but that this lack was being supplied by the factories filling war orders from Europe. At the time of the Venezuelan controversy with Great Britain in 1895, he said, the black powder output of the country for one day was sufficient to fire a 10-inch gun once.

In his luncheon address, Maxim said that England or Germany, at the close of the present war, would have a navy superior to the American navy, and hence could land its trained fighters on the American coast. He figured that the total of effective troops available for defense would be 30,000 of the standing army, aside from those manning the coast fortifications, and perhaps 70,000 state militiamen fairly trained and equipped. The enemy, he said, could land at least 250,000 men in a month, and could bring monthly reinforcements
of equal number.

Enemy Could Take East in 3 Weeks.
New York or Boston, and the country from the Alleghenies to the sea, could be occupied in two weeks, he declared.
In this way, the enemy would get control of most of the big ammunition factories, of navy yards and arsenals, and of the Pennsylvania coal mines.

"Our little, poorly equipped army would not be able to offer resistance enough to make a ripple in the line of the enemy's advance," he said. "Our army would make just about one good day's killing."

"We would be as helpless in the hands of the enemy as Belgium," he said. "Our feeble fighting would merely anger and exasperate the enemy, and he would break vengeance in ample measure."
There would be but one way out, he said. We should have to ransom ourselves with gold, and the enemy would throw his sword into the scales as did Brennus, to make good weight. Our captives would take possession of our homes and of our women, for to every household would be detailed a certain number of officers or privates, to be fed and entertained.

Drains Picture of Atrocities.
"You, my dear fellow-citizen, would no longer be master of your own household,
but the officer in charge would be master of ceremonies and grand master of the bedchamber. Any motion or word of protest from you against the most damnable indignities perpetrated upon wife or daughter would cause you to be shot down in your tracks like a dog, or to be tried up as an interested speculator of the regime."

"This is not an overdrawn picture.
All this has happened to the Belgians.
It is not a thing done only by Germans.
It is the commonest thing that has ever been done in all the wars of our race."
He asked the question: "What must we do to be saved from such a hell of war?" and answered it by saying that preparation, regardless of cost, was the only salvation.

The pacifists, he said, propose to make no preparations, on the theory that "we are beloved of all nations, and no foreign Power would have the heart to hurt us." They have even advocated disarmament as a preventive of war, and have argued that the European war resulted from "preparedness."

"The exact opposite is the truth," he said. "Had England, France and Russia, or any one of them, been as well prepared as Germany, there would have been no war."

Pacifists Fearing War for War.
"Of all the highways of hell that have been paved with good intentions since the dawn of history, there has been none qualified to visit such calamity upon a people as the broad highway which pacifists, with their evil-god intentions are paving for the march of the invader into this country."

and navy, with sufficient munitions to insure victory, then success to the propaganda of the ultrapacifists, who want to place Uncle Sam on a cross and wet his parched lips with grape juice for the Bryanization of the world."

"Abject submission of the country to England, Germany, Japan—any of the great Powers—would be far better than sending the picked men of the country to a shambles of blood and slaughter on the firing line, which would be the inevitable result if we should be unready when war comes."

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Irritability, oversensitiveness, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, dizziness—these are symptoms of nervous exhaustion, neuras-

Very often the patient feels best to bring no refreshment, the nervous system fails to recuperate. This distressing condition is caused by worry

the disorder.

their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink

ADOPTION OF TWO BOYS IS ISSUE IN $10,000,000 TRIAL

Widow of Kansas City Railroad Builder Sued His Relatives, Who Claimed Estate.

TELLS OF AGREEMENT

Says He Was to Settle $30,000
on Her and Adopt Children —Will Not Changed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 24.—The parentage of two boys, 8 and 12 years old, is the question on which a $10-000,000 suit in equity hung in the Circuit Court here yesterday. The boys are the children of Mrs. Margaret Hackman Townsend, who was divorced from A. G.
Hackman, a Chicago druggist, in 1911.
She married George Townsend, an electrical engineer, April 29, 1913, three months before he killed himself by jumping into the Missouri River.

Attorneys for Mrs. Townsend will attempt to prove that Townsend, regardless of a crass, straight-laced old bachelor, was the father of these two children by adoption.

Townsend built the Kansas City, Clay County & St. Joseph Railway. He worked on it three years. Then when the road was finished and the project was making money he married Mrs.
Hackman, an old friend. On June 24 he started on a long walk and disappeared.
The Missouri River was dragged and his body found.

His will, dated 1906, left the estate to these brothers and sisters: Miss Cornelia Townsend and Mrs. Anna L. Davis, both of Milwaukee; Edward W.
Townsend, former Congressman and now postmaster in Montclair, N. J., and W. B. Townsend.

Prior to his marriage to Mrs. Hackman Townsend had made an agreement, the papers filed in the suit say, settling $30,000 on her and agreeing to adopt her children, George and Edward W. Hackman. In that agreement he waived the usual widow's right to the estate.

The adoption of the boys was never legally carried out and the estate was claimed by the sisters and brothers under the 1906 will.

Suit Ill-Advised, W. R. Townsend

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 24.—Postmaster Edward W. Townsend said that his brothers had been ill-advised in bringing the suit. He is represented in the case pending in Kansas City.

FIRST WAR BABY BROUGHT TO THIS COUNTRY TO BE DEPORTED

Refused Admission Because Unaccompanied Was to Adopt Child.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—First of the European war babies to come to this country, Jeanne Proctor, who was adopted by Baroness Nadine von Kilffus Procter, has been ordered deported together with Mrs. Mary Stanford, an English woman, who brought her here on the American liner St. Paul, and Mrs. Stanford's year-old daughter, Peggy.

The Baroness came to this country six months ago to rest after serving as a war nurse, and made arrangements to adopt a war baby which Mrs. Stanford, who was coming here for a visit, agreed to bring over. She had the child named Jeanne Proctor.

The immigration officials decided that as the child was unaccompanied by either parent they had no alternative but to send Jeanne with Mrs. Stanford and her child to Ellis Island, where a board of inquiry ordered all three deported.

The Baroness, a Russian by birth, married and was divorced by Percy Procter, member of a wealthy Clinton family of soap manufacturers. He alleged that she refused to live in Clinton. A previous husband, a French Baron, died while she was suing him for divorce.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Buford Valentine
Mott, who formerly lived at Kirkwood,

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Abolishing Terminal Smoke.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In your editorial column of Saturday, Nov. 20, you publish an article relative to the electrification of St. Louis railroad terminals, with the end in view of eliminating the smoke nuisance.

In Chicago a commission headed by Dean Goss of the engineering department of the University of Illinois has recently completed a report that it has taken five years of time to compile and $500,000 spent in research, etc., and this report in no many words states that the electrification of Chicago railroad terminals is not a practical proposition, for the reason that such a radical move, looking toward the abatement of the smoke nuisance, would cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. The idea of burning coal in powdered form, however, it is stated, has been developed beyond the experimental stage, which fact, if it is a fact, would mean that coal when reduced to dust and burned in suspension would produce perfect combustion, and it is, of course, a well-known scientific fact that smoke is unconsumed fuel, and nothing else, and where there is perfect combustion there can be no smoke.

An Editorial Approved.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I wish to congratulate you on your editorial of the 19th inst. "A Moral Defective." If I had permitted the doctors to use their judgment, I could not now be writing this, as they wanted to amputate my right hand because it was injured. I hope Dr. Halseiden or the mother of the little victim at least had it baptized.

ONE CRIPPLE LESS.

Long Walk and Long Wait.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The absurdity of the vote as conducted by the United Railways is characteristic of the acts of that corporation. If voting yes meant that my vote was an expression of my desire to have rapid transit in St. Louis, I would be a traitor to my duty to vote otherwise.

But by so voting, rapid transit will not be established. Numberless inconveniences will be continued to be forced on us, by compelling us to walk several minutes longer to get to a position where the cars of our street railway will stop for us—if they stop. The United Railways says to us: "Take a long walk to a corner selected by us, and we may make up for that time spent by you in walking by compelling others to walk to distant corners." It does not tell us that the United Railways will thereby be enabled to run fewer cars at longer intervals.

WAITING WALKER.

Prohibition Wire-Pullers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In your editorial comment of yesterday on the score of the proposed moving picture exhibit designed to manufacture prohibition sentiment, permit me to say that you are right—right right down to the very last word. The propaganda in question will be misleading; and, as the writer believes, studiously, willfully misleading.

Where does the money come from? The sinister mawmen who pull the strings that cause these long-faced exhorters to squawk and dance should be smoked out. Interest in prohibition is wholly gratuitous—money-made in cold blood and by men honest up would be illuminating. Which reminds me of a significant remark credited to Mr. Tom Johnson, then Mayor of Cleveland. He said, in effect: "Every time I had some important legislation affecting big interests in training, a prohibition wave hit the town."

A MISROBRIAN.

A Useless Straw Vote.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The United Railways vote on its "no-stop" plan is a straw vote. The company shall continue or abandon its present plan is of such a nature that it is easy to forecast the results before they are actually received.

Every one who suffers no inconvenience by the plan. In the way of having to walk an extra block, and who is enabled to reach his destination 5 or 10 minutes earlier in the evening will vote "yes," while those who are put to the inconvenience of having to walk an extra block on account of the "no-stop" plan, will vote "no." Inasmuch as there are a greater number of people who will not have to walk the extra block, it is logical to suppose the plan will carry. However, it would not carry if the greater number of people had to walk the extra block. For this reason the plan will be a flat failure in ascertaining the attitude of the people who are most vitally concerned.

PASSENGER.

ILLEGAL ELECTRIC CONTRACTS.

The heads of both the United Railways and the Union Electric have testified that excessive prices are paid under contract with the Electric Company of Missouri for current from the Keokuk dam. The Electric Company of Missouri, which locally controls and distributes the current and the United Railways and Union Electric are owned by the North American Co.

The Post-Dispatch has suggested the illegality of these contracts on account of their fraudulent nature as agreements made by parties who deal on both sides of the directors' table. Are they not illegal under the Missouri laws against trusts and conspiracies in restraint of trade? Under Missouri law all contracts to control prices by artificial or fixed methods, regardless of other conditions, are illegal, because opposed to sound public policy. Section 10,301, Revised Statutes of Missouri, defines this policy as follows:

All arrangements, contracts, agreements, combinations or understandings made or entered into between any two or more persons which are designed or made with a view to increase or which tend to increase the market price of any product, commodity or article, or thing of any class or kind whatsoever bought and sold . . . are hereby declared to be against public policy, unlawful and void, and any person or persons creating, entering into, becoming a member of or participating in such arrangements, contracts, agreements, combinations or understandings shall be deemed and adjudged guilty of a conspiracy in restraint of trade and punished as provided for in this article.

The penalties are designated in section 10,302: Any person violating any of the provisions of this article, or who shall do any act prohibited or declared unlawful by the provisions of this article, shall be adjudged guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding five years, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5000, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

If the agreements and arrangements between the Keokuk Power Co. and the various associated companies distributing or dealing in electricity are made with a view of increasing the price of electricity to consumers in St. Louis or incidentally result in an increase of price, the agreements and contracts constitute a violation of two other sections of the Missouri anti-trust law, namely:

Sec. 10,298. Combinations. In restraint of trade declared a conspiracy. Any person who shall create, enter into, become a member of or participate in any pool, trust, agreement, combination, confederation, or understanding with any person or persons in restraint of trade or competition in the importation, transportation, manufacture, purchase or sale of any product or commodity, in this State, or any article or thing bought or sold whatsoever, shall be deemed and adjudged guilty of a conspiracy in restraint of trade, and shall be punished as provided in this article.

Sec. 10,299. Pool and trust agreement defined. Any person who shall create, enter into, become a member of or participate in any pool, trust, agreement, combination, confederation or understanding, with any other person or persons to regulate, control or fix the price of any article of manufacture, mechanism, merchandise, commodity, convenience, repair, or any product of mining, or any article or thing whatsoever, of any class or kind bought and sold, or the price or premium to be paid for insuring property against loss or damage by fire, lightning or storm, or to maintain said price, when so regulated or fixed, or shall enter into, become a member of or participate in any pool, trust, agreement, contract, combination, confederation or understanding, to fix or limit the amount or quantity of any article of manufacture, mechanism, merchandise, commodity, convenience, repair, any product of mining, or any article or thing whatsoever, of any class or kind bought and sold, or the price or premium to be paid for insuring property against loss or damage by fire, lightning or storm, shall be deemed and adjudged guilty of a conspiracy in restraint of trade, and be punished as provided in this article.

Any citizen who is a consumer may enjoy the carrying out of the contracts and the Circuit Attorney could, on the relation of a citizen or of his own volition, file a "Quo Warranto" to forfeit the franchises of the offending corporation for violation of our anti-trust laws and the corporation could be ousted from the privilege of doing business, and its franchise revoked as provided by Section 10,304, R. S. Mo. of 1909: Section 10,307 also provides that the purchaser of an article is not liable for the price of an article brought from a trust, and this provision of the statute has been upheld by our courts. But probably consumers would not care to resort to this remedy.

Section 10,309 provides that the word "person" in the act shall include corporations. There seems to be ample remedy in law for the excessive cost of electricity supplied by the Keokuk dam under contracts without compromising the mill tax or reducing the efficiency of either the United Railways or the Union Electric.

Circuit Attorney Harvey should look into his power and duty to act under the law and direct his course accordingly.

THE SERBIAN FIGHT BEFORE MONASTIR.
If it is assumed that the rally of the Serbians before Monastir will enable them to hold the enemy until help comes, the experience of King Peter parallels still more strikingly that of King Albert.

After almost all the rest of Belgium had been overrun, King Albert's army was driven from Antwerp and retreated with heavy losses to the south along the coast. Had the Germans pursued a little more energetically the disaster might have been made complete, but a few hours' respite was afforded as the French boundary was approached.

That the Germans are not now in Dunkirk and Calais is due to the fact that on the narrow strip of their fatherland remaining to them the Belgians turned in desperation and put up a furious defensive fight that astonished the world, and none more than the Germans, who had looked for an easy final victory. Availing themselves of the only physical facilities of protection in that low region, the Belgians opened the sea dykes and flooded the country, drowning thousands of their pursuers. So they held the strip until the French and British lines to the south-east were extended to join and strengthen their own.

With their backs to their boundary, the Serbians seem to have copied the Belgians, defeating the Bulgarians with a loss of 10,000, according to report, and driving them back some miles. To the southeast again are the French and British. Prompt work will retain for King Peter as much of Serbia as King Albert retains of Belgium, perhaps more. If both sides dig in, does it mean a period of trench fighting in Servian mountains as tedious as that in Belgian flats?

U. S. NONDESCRIPT REFERENDUM.
The form of the ballot, the method of taking the expression and the provision for counting the vote all indicated that the United Railways was voting "aye" early and often on the "no-stop" plan.

This is the most decisive result of the street car referendum. What the contents of the ballot boxes carried on the cars indicated is another matter. "Rapid transit," the proposition specified on the ballots, was approved by a vote of 67,588 to 21,395, which occasions wonder that so many voted in the negative. What the prevailing opinion of street car passengers may be on the no-stop plan still remains a matter of conjecture. With the plan in force on all routes in the 60-day test, perhaps results more definite would have been given. But with the plan in force on only two routes, results were not impressive. Gains in time seemed to be measured in fractional minutes and rush-hour congestion seemed little affected, if affected at all.

A nondescript, inconclusive test and a nondescript, inconclusive vote of passengers leaves the question just where it was before, to be decided by a referendum of the State Public Service Commission, on a showing in which the most impressive features are that the company unmistakably wants the change and many persons inconvenienced by the change don't want it.

APPROPRIATIONS "BY CUSTOM."

Only the law points in State Auditor's Gordon's case were of public interest. Nobody wished criminal penalties inflicted on him. The outcome declares that through custom rather than law, warrants on the taxpayers' money for the junket expenses of the State Auditor, the State Auditor's son or other State officers are restricted only by the discretion of the State Auditor himself. The extension in the opportunities of the relatives is important. Public money can be appropriated by custom as well as by act of the Legislature. Enjoying already the soft places among the appointive jobs, the relatives can be given the snaps in junket trips, for which custom will compel the State to foot the bills.

It is a case in which it may be judicious to modify custom by statute.

It is raining blood in Europe and gold in the United States.

NON SEQUITURS FROM MR. MEEKER.

Valor may have discretion as its better part, but wary discretion can never arouse such admiration as Congressman Meeker's spectacular valor at the St. Louis suffrage luncheon in a downtown hotel.

His general charge against equal suffrage was that women are so constituted as to go to greater lengths than men. Therefore they would go to greater lengths in politics. Specification: In Denver, where women have had the vote for 23 years, a common price for their votes is $50. Denver society women scorn to take cash, but deliver the goods at the polls for theater tickets or boxes of gloves.

Conceding the issue of fact, of special interest to the Denver ladies, which is raised by the specification, what particular force has it for anyone except the treasurer of the campaign fund? With $50 as the cash price of feminine votes, and the old-established price of $2 for a masculine vote still holding, his problem naturally becomes more complicated. The men, too, may demand $50. But of what concern is that to the great mass of men and women who never sell their votes or to the politicians who find it too dangerous nowadays to buy votes? Votes for women will not increase the frequency of such campaigns as Hanna conducted in 1896, Mr. Meeker to the contrary notwithstanding. It will not spread throughout the Union the practices peculiar to Adams County, O.

The merits of woman suffrage are better studied from its probable effects on a problem more distinctive of this day: Will women be as apt as our men, for instance our Meekers, to enter politics as the representatives of special instead of public interests?

Liberty Bell never makes any European tours.

ART WANTS NATURE'S HELP.

At this moment of emphasis, in the height of the musical and operatic season, we delight to find Impresario Gatti-Casazza saying something that we have been longing, but lacking the courage, to say, lo, these many years. On the authority of Bodanzky, the new conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, we learn that Gatti-Casazza lays down the dictum that beauty is essential for the opera singer as well as for the scenery. Gatti, we are with you!

How often we, and you, gentle reader, have turned our eyes away from the singer and sought relief in the scenery! How often a heavenly voice is the sole redemption of homeliness, and we pay for the pleasure of the ear with a pain in the eye! The end man of ancient negro minstrels used to perpetrate a classic about the man who begged his homely wife to sing whenever he looked at her, but the artists of opera—we mean grand opera, of course—cannot lift us out of our sense of beauty. The soul cannot be gladdened through the sense of sound and starved through the sight. Opera, we have sometimes thought, was designed exclusively for the pleasures of the blind, saving the ballet.

Avant sawed-off heroes and roly-poly villains, obese basses, and plug-uglies generally in romantic roles, and spindly tenors in tights, if Gatti-Casazza has his way. The gargantuan giants will no longer sing Marguerite, nor Faust essay Faust. The grim mother of all will be sent off to sing lullabies in the dark, and harpies no longer confront us as sirens. Keep the chorus in the wings unless it can pass muster, and preserve the spiritual essentials against deadly incongruities. 'Twill vastly deepen our aesthetic joys if we can stop, and look, as well as listen.

VIEWING LIBERTY BELL.

ASCENDING with the loyal line,
Time-honored Bell of Liberty,
As to no other earthly shrine
We bow our reverent heads to Thee.

While foreign nations kill and burn,
And care for naught but to destroy,
In Peace and Love to Thee we turn
And give Thee homage in our joy.

Our Country's birth Thy tones did seal,
As on that ne'er-forgotten day,
To England's hosts Thou didst reveal
The spirit that no power could stay.

Though we may never hear Thee ring,
The echo of Thy clarion tones
Is all around me as I sing,
And reaches to Earth's furthest zones.

WELCOME TO DALLAS.

ST. LOUIS is glad to welcome Dallas into competition with her for the Democratic national convention. In Dallas she recognizes a fair and formidable opponent, and one whose enterprise must make the contest worth while. We have little fear of Chicago; but Dallas, what with the closeness of the vote in Texas and the central location she enjoys, is another matter. If the National Committee really makes the award on a basis of convenience to the delegates and advantage to the party, we are not so sure of beating Dallas. Certainly it is an easy place to reach in a hurry from any part of the country, and that the convention would give the Democratic party that slight advantage which it needs to hold down the Republicans of Texas goes without saying. Dallas has raised her $100,000 for the convention, and is going to Chicago on a special train next month to lay her claims before the National Committee. In the face of that sort of competition, together with the advantages which we have freely conceded, it is scarcely so easy for us to see how we can win as it is hard for us to see how Dallas can lose.

HE WAS.

THE announcement that the Denver & Rio Grande railroad will not serve liquor on its trains after January 1st recalls an incident in Illinois last summer. In Illinois the railroads are forbidden to let an intoxicated man board a train. A local train was about to pull out of —, when the conductor captured a drunken man slipping into the smoker.

"Here you!" the conductor shouted, laying firm hand upon the culprit's coat collar. "You can't board this train!"
The traveler affected tremendous surprise.
"Whash smatter?" he asked.
"You're drunk."
"Whashat?"
"You're drunk. Here, get off!"
The drunken man remonstrated.
"I'm not drunk," he rejoined. "Wash me walk down the aisle."
"I don't want to see you walk down the aisle. I saw you climbing up the steps."
"How did I climb up the steps?"
"You climbed up the steps like a man climbing a tree."
"Did I?"
The drunken man blinked.
"Thash settles it. When does the next train go?" he asked.

IN SIGNS.

I AM sending you one that was painted years ago on the window of a saloon in the Kansas City bottoms:

FREE DRINKS TOMORROW.

A suggestion to the man on Olive street who is shining shoes "here inside":

SHOES SHINED OUTSIDE INSIDE.

Old Harry James tells us we have also missed this one:

Straw hats cleaned while you wait for 15 cents:

A negro grocery operating under the name of the "Treat You Right Store," at Second street and Broadway, East St. Louis, was forced to suspend last week because all was going out and nothing coming in. The following day this sign was hung on the front of the building:

We are closed for lack of what you owe us.
If you want us to start up again please come in and pay your bill and we will start anew.

Speaking of funny signs, could anything be funnier than this heading from one of the morning papers?

DOG BITES TWO LITTLE GIRLS ON SOUTH SIDE.

On Fourteenth street, near Clark avenue:

John Burnheart
Cold Ice Cream.

In the Belleville, Ill. public library this sign had a prominent place at one time:

It is Not Allowed to Take Books From the Shelves.

In the vestibule of the church of St. Joseph, Freeburg, Ill., is this sign:

Standing in the Stoops is Forbidden.

(There is an explanation to the second sign. In Freeburg they refer to the vestibule as the stoops.)
Maybe it is only some of the big salaries in the local Federal Reserve Bank that are to be disturbed.

One would not be surprised if Capt. Boy-d were considerably annoyed.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau,
it is impossible to answer queries
by mail or telephone.

BEAUTY CULTURE.

SEWANEES—One whose hair is white and has found it impossible to keep the yellow tint out, will find this hint invaluable. Buy the best hair water, such as you would buy for your clothes. Use this water freely and any one whose hair has been streaked with yellow will be delighted with the results. This will not injure the hair.

F. F. S.—A correspondent of the Chemical News says that tattoo marks will disappear by first being well rubbed with a salve of pure acetic acid and lard, then with a solution of potassium permanganate, and finally with hydrochloric acid. These marks are also said to be removed by the application of a salicylic acid and glycerin. A compress is applied over the parts, and the whole covered with sticking plaster. After eight days the marks taken off with a French surgeon. Sandpaper skin until outer cuticle is rubbed off, then apply a mixture of freshly slaked lime and powdered phosphorus. This, if left on 48 hours, causes a scab which will peel off, leaving no scar or trace of the tattooing.

HEALTH HINTS.

G. G. P.—A capable physician should watch stomach trouble. You might try eating a single article of food, or more than two foods, not eating meat or fruit with anything else. Stomach trouble has been known to disappear in various ways. One patient was cured by eating nothing and drinking water for 10 days. Diet should always be simple and there should be deep breathing and sufficient exercise of all the muscles in pure air. Don't expect immediate relief. Stomachs differ, and doctors sometimes advise what is not best for the particular stomach that is to be cured.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

SWEETIE—Divinity candy: Have two pans ready, and in one place cups sugar, cup water and cup Karo corn syrup. In other pan place 1 cup water and 1 cup white sugar. Let each boil. Second pan will be cooked first as there is less in it and when it is stringy add whites of 4 eggs, well beaten. Then add contents of the second, and 1 1/2 cups chopped nuts, pecans or whatever nuts you may prefer. It is not easy to make divinity and the cook who spoils the first batch need not be discouraged.

NEWLYWEDS—Dressing for poultry: State pieces of bread, 1-4 dry, melted butter, 1 level teaspoon salt, 1 level teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon summer savory, 2 teaspoons powdered sage, 1 teaspoon parsley, chopped fine. For stuffing large turkey, have quart newly opened eggs, yolk of an egg, a little pepper, red or white, and a pinch of mustard if you choose (you can get on without it). Use an egg whisk and blend these all; then add to them a half cup of oil, adding slowly, almost drop by drop, until the liquid and save to use with melted butter for basting; season with butter, pepper, salt and paprika, adding a little celery salt, fill turkey with this dressing and with the mixture of egg yolk and butter used for basting.

B.—Five-minute mayonnaise dressing: Put a pinch of salt in 1-4 dry, melted butter, 1 level teaspoon salt, 1 level teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon summer savory, 2 teaspoons powdered sage, 1 teaspoon parsley, chopped fine. For stuffing large turkey, have quart newly opened eggs, yolk of an egg, a little pepper, red or white, and a pinch of mustard if you choose (you can get on without it). Use an egg whisk and blend these all; then add to them a half cup of oil, adding slowly, almost drop by drop, until the liquid and save to use with melted butter for basting; season with butter, pepper, salt and paprika, adding a little celery salt, fill turkey with this dressing and with the mixture of egg yolk and butter used for basting.

L. R.—We know of no Illinois law in regard to overflow pipe of locomotive injector. If anyone has seen accident through carelessness of the railroad, it might settle with the railroad. If brought, the plaintiff taking chances on winning.

MRS. A.—Merely upon what you state, we do not know of any law that would still owe; however, it appears the latest charge is in the hands of the State's Attorney. If you are sure of the facts, you may see Free Legal Aid Bureau, 233 Municipal Court Bldg., 14th and Market, in reference to this money lender.

WILLING TO LEARN—The dead you received "Warranty Deeds" was the proper one by that deed the warranty warrants the title, excepting such laws and taxes as are expressly excepted therein. By that deed you have recourse on the vendor should title be found defective.

ANXIOUS MOTHER—Your daughter's use of name Sade would not prevent her from college, and it is not a complicated matter should a home be purchased under that name. If she desires to keep the name she may do so, but should continue to be known thereby among her acquaintances and sign so. Changing first name is a common occurrence.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ART—Brush and Pencil not listed.
MILLIE—The teaching of domestic science for teaching is not to be had in the public schools.

G. D.—Liberty bell is 12 feet in circumference around its seven feet six inches around crown; three feet following line of bell from lip to crown and two feet three inches following crown; three inches thick in thickest part near lip, one and a quarter inches in thinnest part toward crown. Clapper three feet two inches long. Total weight 200 pounds.

A.—Carbolic acid disinfectant: For all surfaces, such as floors, woodwork, marble, etc.—carbolic acid and parts and water 30 parts. If disinfectant is to be used upon liquid or semi-liquid material, add 5 parts to 10 parts of the acid, 3 parts of the soap and 20 parts of the liquid. This exposure should be 10 minutes or more.

J. O. X.—The merits of the play, the reputation of the playwright, whether or not the production is in with the ideas of the particular manager to whom it is submitted, if the manager would help to determine its market value. Plays are sold on a royalty basis. In most cases it is a matter of special agreement, but a new and untried author usually receives about 5 per cent of the gross receipts.

READER—Wedding anniversaries: First, cotton; second, paper; third, leather; fourth, fruit and flowers; fifth, wood; sixth, sugar; seventh, wool; eighth, India rubber; ninth, willow; tenth, tin; eleventh, steel; twelfth, glass; thirteenth, lace; fourteenth, ivory; fifteenth, crystal; sixteenth, china; seventeenth, silver; eighteenth, pearl; nineteenth, ruby; twentieth, gold; twenty-first, diamond.

Three Candles

The tale of a mother's devotion to a little child and the constancy of a rejected sweetheart to whom happiness finally comes.

By Mildred C. Goodridge.

"THREE of the wax candles, please—the little ones. Why do you hesitate?"

Mrs. Prescott, young, still beautiful, although sorrow shadowed her face and her eyes looked dim and weary, almost reproachfully challenged the faltering clerk in the little confectionery and toy store. "As I tell you, I will pay for them and the cake when I get my pay, Saturday," she added.

"Oh, it is not that," declared the girl behind the counter, "indeed it is not. It is because my heart is full of love and sympathy for you. My dear lady, won't you try to forget?"

"I must never do that," replied the lady in mourning in sad but even tones. "It is the little one's third birthday anniversary. She was the only ray of brightness that ever came into my life. With all the agony and grief, her memory is sacredly sweet to me."

Without another word the girl placed the three tiny candles in the package containing a small frosted cake the lady had ordered, but her tears were falling and she vainly tried to stifle a sob.

"Bless you, dear," spoke Mrs. Prescott, gently. "Do not think me morbid. It would be cruel for me to forget little Arline."

"The lady of sorrows!" murmured the girl, pathetically, as her customer departed. "Poor soul! Truly, her cup is full to overflowing."

Neighbors Show Pity for Her.

A TRAGEDY, sudden, terrible and devastating, had come into the life of Mary Prescott. The little town knew only of its rare outlines. Mr. and Mrs. Prescott had come to Warham with a little child a year old. They rented a small cottage and lived very much to themselves. Their life seemed a strange one. The husband would go away mysteriously and be absent for as long as a month at a time. During such periods mother and child shut themselves up in the lonely home, knowing as few people as was possible. Neighbors never intruded, but they could not fail to notice that the lady's face grew paler and thinner each day, and her eyes had a constant expression of fear, suspense or grief, they could not determine which sentiment most prevailed.

Then the truth came out, discovered by a resident of the little town visiting the city. James Prescott was a gambler. He had used up all his own money and that of his wife at the card table. For a month, during which he had been seen about the town, he had been seen about the house. Then one evening the village was startled by a new disclosure. The father, with little Arline by his side, had been seen to go aboard the river steamer Puritan. An hour later Mrs. Prescott came rushing to the wharf to make inquiries. She was frantic, half beside herself. Two hours later this circumstance was obscured by the message flashed from a point 50 miles down the river, that the boiler of the Puritan had blown up in midstream and of the 100 passengers aboard less than 20 had been rescued. About 50 bodies were recovered. In the list of those not found the names of James and Arline Prescott were listed.

In the village it was supposed that Prescott had been taking his child on a casual down-the-river trip. Alas! poor, bereaved Mary Prescott alone knew the agonizing incidents that led up to the tragedy that shadowed her already dreary life.

18 POUNDS OF BLOOD

is the average quantity in a healthy adult, but it is the quality of the blood that determines our strength to resist sickness. With weak blood we find cold hands and chilly feet; in children an aversion to study, and in adults rheumatic tendencies. In changing seasons get abundant fresh air and take Scott's Emulsion after meals, because Scott's Emulsion is a rich blood-food that will increase the quality of the blood while it warms the body and helps carry off the impurities.

When multitudes of people are today taking Scott's Emulsion to avert winter sickness, and are giving it to their children, you should not neglect its benefits. Look out for substitutes.

Her Husband's Parents.

ONCE upon a time there came to the office of a prominent lawyer a father and son. The lawyer had known the family for several years, and it was one of the most respectable in the community. The trouble was this: It seems that two years before the son had married a girl of the neighborhood—a working girl.

When the family realized that the deed was done and they had to make head against the wishes of his parents, he had married a girl of the neighborhood—a working girl.

The Ice Princess

Sandman story which explains why sometimes it is summer here, and sometimes winter.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONCE upon a time many millions of years ago the whole world was ice. And at the end of the earth, the very foot of the North Pole, lived the North Wind in a great palace. Its towers reached to the sky and glittered in the pale sun, which threw no heat, and all about its walls stood statues of ice in every niche.

The North Wind had a beautiful daughter over whose ice he watched carefully, for it had been foretold that some day the Prince of Fire would carry her off and marry her. She knew of this and secretly longed to see the Prince, but her stern father kept her shut up in the castle of ice all day. When she rode out on a sleigh drawn by polar bears and covered with furs, she saw nothing but the vast fields of snow and ice gleaming away every side.

The Princess grew weary of the cold and eternal plains of white. "Can I ever go to land which will be warm, where flowers bloom and the earth is green," she asked of her maid. And the maid, who always had heard of the Prince, told her wonderful tales of the Kingdom of Fire.

Down below in the Kingdom of Fire the Prince, who had heard about the Princess, was equally anxious to see her as she was to see him. His home was in a warm country of green fields of blooming flowers, where lakes shone to the mild air and the birds swung on every bush. He told a friend of his desire to go above to the Kingdom of Ice.

"If you go," said the friend, "you will likely freeze. Beside, the Princess is locked in a castle of ice."

Now a tiny bird heard this and said to the Prince, "I can lead the way to the gate that leads to the upper world. Are you afraid to venture out?"

"No," replied the Prince. "Get me the key from under my father's pillow and I will go."

The bird, which was a bright red one, flew in at the King's window and stole the key. The Prince mounted his horse at once and which led up to the Kingdom of ice above.

In an instant the gate was thrown open and the Prince dashed into the open air. Like the wind he rode, but his nature as well as laws of court, he promised he would get the divorce, and suggested that it would be wise for the son to see the young woman. So the son called on her, accompanied by the lawyer.

The young woman, understanding what they had come for, and being a sensible girl, received them without malice, and practically demanded nothing. When told what was wanted, she asked what she was going to do about it. It was a State where desertion was legal reason for divorce, she did not protest, but said:

"If my husband wishes to get a divorce I will not fight it. I want whatever he wishes." The lawyer turned to the husband and asked, "Is that what you want?" And to the surprise of all he answered: "No; not for anything in the world! That is not what I want."

Looking at the wife he loved, he realized that they were parted by the will of his parents and not by his own will. He took her in his arms, and the wise lawyer left. They founded a home by themselves and lived happily ever after. This fable is true, and sets for the following moral:

THE MARRIAGE MACHINE GOES TO SMASH WHEN PARENTS INSIST ON RUNNING IT.

Why We Are Nervous.

NERVOUSNESS is caused by the lowering of the vital forces and is an indication that the body is using up more energy than it is making, caused by overfeeding, overwork, lack of fresh air and exercise, worry and other injurious mental strains.

It is easy to understand that if the expenditure of energy is more than that produced by the system the result will naturally be a lowering of the vital forces and eventual nervous bankruptcy. First, then, in importance, is to find the cause of your nervousness and try to overcome it before you can make any headway in regard to a permanent cure.

Overwork is perhaps the greatest cause and result of serious nervous trouble and fear the folly of it until it is too late, and only those who have suffered with some nervous disorder understand thoroughly the great unhappiness and utter despair which accompany such a condition.

The symptoms of existing nervous disorders are many and varied. Restlessness, drumming of the fingers, facial contortions, irritability, inability to concentrate the mind, hysteria, attacks of tears and laughter, insomnia and many other conditions are among the not uncommon results of nervousness. These may all be treated and eventually cured by the newer methods of diet, exercise, deep breathing, rest and baths, as the ancient system of treatment by drugs has long since been abandoned by most of the modern physicians.

Overfeeding and bad combinations of food are perhaps two of the greatest causes of nervousness, as very often the mere work of digesting and excreting a larger amount of food than the body needs lowers the vitality and causes extreme nervous complications. For those of sedentary habits two meals a day of simple foods and at intervals of six or seven hours or even longer will be found advisable, and this diet, combined with a few of the simplest exercises, such as walking, deep breathing, stretching and relaxing, five minutes twice a day, will show a wonderful improvement in the digestion, nerves and general health.

In activity of the bowels and kidneys through lack of exercise usually results in nervousness because the accumulation of waste in the system is retained, and any of the trunk movements, such as liver squese, trunk twisting, and raising, will help overcome this condition within a few days from the time you start to practice them.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCardell

The Jarr Family's Day Begins
With a Liver-and-Onion Discussion.

"H, I'm tired of"—Mr. Jarr was going to add the words liver and onion, but he noted Mrs. Jarr's eye was upon him over the coffee percolator.

"What were you going to say you were tired of?" asked Mrs. Jarr. And then without waiting for a reply, she remarked: "I am tired of a good many things, too. But I find I have to put up with them and so say nothing. I am tired of your continual fault finding for one thing."

"Oh, I wasn't going to find any fault—not at all—not at all!" declared Mr. Jarr stoutly.

"I suppose you consider that liver isn't good enough for you?" said Mrs. Jarr. "It's the best I can do and it costs as much as anything else."

"We might have ham and eggs, if that's the case, or fennel haddie, or beefsteak, or chops, or codfish," said Mr. Jarr, roused at last to come out with his complaint. "I am a little tired of liver and onion for breakfast, now that you mention it."

"Why don't you ask for strawberries and cream or grapefruit salad?" asked Mrs. Jarr, coldly.

"Why, I think they would be very nice for a change," said Mr. Jarr.

"This is the thanks I get," she cried. "This is what I have expected. The only happy women, to my way of thinking, are the women who live at hotels and who don't slave themselves to death to try to please a man only to be insulted by him every hour of the day."

"I didn't mean to insult you—indeed I didn't!" cried Mr. Jarr hurriedly.

"You did so!" said Mrs. Jarr. "I thought you were so fond of the sort of breakfast I had Gertrude cook for you, but I guess you are tired of your home. Maybe that was what you started to say."

"Why, no! Not at all!" replied Mr. Jarr. "In fact, I had simply started to say that I was so tired of—er—er—you know."

"Now don't try to get out of it that way!" sniffed Mrs. Jarr. "You have been in a terrible temper for days and days, and have been just looking around for something to find fault about. The breakfast being the first thing this morning, of course you find fault with that. Be truthful and admit it!"

Now, whenever a woman says "Be truthful, never forget that is a trap."

"Well, er—er—you see, it's like this," said Mr. Jarr, trying to be diplomatic and truthful at the same time—but it can't be done.

"You see," he stammered again, "I've been noticing—now, mind, I'm not criticizing you, but I've been noticing—that families are like individuals in a great measure. They have fixed habits. Some families are ham-and-eggs-for-breakfast families, and some are, say, well, hash-for-breakfast families. And our is—well, you see—a liver-and-onion-for-breakfast family. Catch what I mean?"

"Oh, is that so?" asked Mrs. Jarr, suddenly dropping her gloved hand and flashing a look of stern inquiry at him.

And since when did you get so well acquainted with the breakfast foods of other families? What other families have the honor of having you to breakfast? You'd better be careful, Mr. Jarr! You may convict yourself. Sometimes you are not quite as clever at covering your tracks as you think!"

Mr. Jarr stared dumfounded. He was so surprised that he looked guilty. He'd been charged with late hours, but never with staying somewhere else to breakfast. He picked up his hat and walked out without another word.

"Gertrude!" said Mrs. Jarr, when the maid came in, "I think Mr. Jarr is tired of liver and onion. He didn't say so, but I think he is."

"Dad, what does moth-proof mean?"
"The holes they leave behind, my son."

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One I's your daughter a finished pianist!
"Not yet, but the neighbors are making threats."

Christmas Is Coming!
MRS. WILLIS: Have you made out the list of the people to whom you want to give presents?
Mrs. Willis: Yes; and also another list of the people I don't want to give presents to but have got to.

Just as soon as they have completed their little bungalow she immediately starts planning what kind of a house they will have the next time they build.

Material Sufficient.

The Builder: I can't seem to figure out how to make this dog house. I wonder if I've got enough material.

His Neighbor: Of course you have. Use your head, man, use your head.

Impertinent Boy.

TOMMY (after a thumping): You're awful hard on me, ma.

Mother: That's because you've been very naughty and wicked.

Turning of the Worm

THE Family Bully was a thick man with heavy lips and bushy eyebrows. He said to his wife: "Here, you! Here's a dollar to last you to the end of the week, and if you have anything charged I don't know about it!"

He said to his son: "Don't let me see you, that's all. Keep out of my sight. Don't ask me for anything. Shift for yourself."

He said to his daughter: "Remember, this house is no camping ground for a lot of idle young men. Your last year's hat is good enough. I'll teach you how to be good!"

Then he stalked out of the house and met a man who said: "Come on and have a drink."

He met another man who said: "Quit work and come to the ball game."

He met another man who said: "What's the matter with a dinner at the club and a musical comedy?"

Then he met another man who said: "It's only midnight. I'll give you your choice—a poker game or a joy ride."

Then the Family Bully rose up in his might and majesty and said: "Never! I've got to go home and look after my family. If I don't they won't respect me."—Life.

Thumbnail Fairy Tale

NO doubt," we said to the plumber, "you'll have to dig the entire street up before you can fix that leak in the bathtub?"

"Shucks, no," replied the plumber. "It won't take a minute. It only needs a new washer, and I wouldn't charge you anything for a little job like that."

Famous Arguments.

OH, Fred, that's the automobile I want you to buy—it has such lovely red wheels!

I know the hat isn't becoming, dear, but it's just the shape they're wearing this season.

I'll take those shoes, young man. They do pinch, but they make my feet look so nice and small!

Let me off this time, your honor, and you'll never see me in this court again.

Oh, she's pretty enough, but she hasn't a lick of brains.

What's the use of me getting on the water wagon; I hardly ever touch the stuff?

I tell you, officer, I was only going about ten miles an hour; my machine couldn't go so miles if it wanted to.

Confound it! If I can't smoke my pipe in your old front room, I'll go over to the saloon on the corner and smoke it.

The Browns ain't got a chance next year, eh? Then how about the Cardinals?

No, central, please—not one, eight, oh, nine, R, but one, oh, eight, nine, W! Yes, that's it! Thank you!

Sunday Milk.

A WET Sunday is a trying time for small boys and girls, and still more so for their parents. On one such day little Donald was very fidgety. First, he asked his mother if he could play with his blocks.

"Oh, no!" was the shocked reply. "You don't play with blocks on Sunday."

In turn his trumpet, his drum, and ball were also banned. The little chap was silent for a short time, when he asked for his horse.

"No, no, sonny," admonished his mother. "Horses don't work on Sunday."

"But, mother," argued Donald, "mine's a milkman's horse!"

Are Actors Coming to This?

A WELL-KNOWN actor dropped into a small town in Kansas not long ago to play a vaudeville date and found he was booked at the picture theater. The house manager met him on Main street.

"So you're my cooler for the first half of the week, eh?" he said.

"What's a cooler?" demanded the actor.

"Well," said the manager, "we run four reels of pictures, and then the machine gets so hot we have to put in a vaudeville act to kill time while it cools off."
